LEARNING LANGUAGES NEWSLETTER

Every quarter, on behalf of the Ministry of Education, Future Learning Solutions - Centre for Languages produces a comprehensive newsletter with information about what is happening in the language teaching community. The newsletter has general information as well as subject specific articles and stories.

If you would like to contribute or subscribe to the Learning Languages newsletter, please contact Kath Doody, Programme Coordinator - fls_lang11ages@1rniservices.co.nz

- LEARNING LANGUAGES Facebook page

Our social media page allows you to stay informed about what is happening in Languages across the country - events, workshops, scholarships etc. Like our page to remain informed and connected.

- We are awaiting the appointment of a new Chinese National Advisor and will update this page once this appointment has been made. The position is co- appointed by the Ministry of Education of New Zealand and China. The Advisor also works in close association with the Chinese Embassy and the Consulate-General of China.

The Chinese National Advisor supports the development of Chinese language education by:

- Offering workshops and courses on effective language learning pedagogy, teaching materials and resources that promote intercultural communicative language teaching.
- Supporting schools with advice and guidance on establishing and sustaining Chinese language programmes.
- Offering school visits and feedback on improvement and professional development pathways.
- Providing information on networking opportunities for teachers of Chinese.
- Advice and guidance on immersion opportunities and scholarships.
- Connecting teachers with professional learning opportunities in New Zealand and abroad.
- Here is a link to the Chinese page on the NZQA website - Chinese Resource page. You will find links to all the NCEA levels, past examinations, assessments, moderator reports etc.

MODERATOR NEWSLETTERS

The link above will take you to the webpage for the Moderator Newsletters. These will now come out twice per year, and will give you updates and information on any changes to NCEA. Please ensure that you check this page from time to time, as the information they provide can be very important and have a significant effect on the way you are assessing your students. The moderator newsletters are for ALL languages in the learning languages area.

Evidence requirements for standards

NZQA encourages innovative ways of collecting student evidence that may be used for assessment purposes. This could include evidence that contributes to multiple standards (integrated assessment), or different modes of collecting evidence such as blogs, video clips, etc.

Teachers are reminded that students submitting evidence beyond the requirements of a standard may impact on student workload. Additionally, a succinct response addressing standard criteria is preferable to a large volume of student evidence that may not necessarily deliver evidence of all the criteria of the standard(s) in question.

For more information on gathering evidence, refer to Gathering evidence of achievement.

Digital submission of Languages materials for moderation

Please see the guide to making digital submissions \(DOCX, 85KB\).

It is important that students in the Interaction standards are clearly identified – this is beyond simply identifying the first speaker, e.g. if it is not video, then some sentences in English which give an indication of what the assessed speaker says are required.

February 2017

The Ministry of Education published updated versions for the Level 3 Achievement Standards in most subjects in November, 2016. The changes appear to be limited to a new planned review date of 31 December 2018, and Explanatory Note 1 now including a reference to Te Marautanga o Aotearoa for all subjects except Te Reo, English and Learning Languages.

However, assessors are advised to check the revised Level 3 standards relating to their programmes against the previous versions. Both the new and the previous versions appear together on the relevant NZQA subject pages

Chinese L6: Context elaborations

Students are expected to communicate information, ideas, and opinions, and express and respond to personal ideas and opinions in areas of most immediate relevance. The content and language of the communication strand is targeted beyond the immediate context to include the expression of opinions.

Students are expected to understand and produce a variety of text types.

- Context and text type
- Examples showing how the student
- Intercultural communicative competence
- What are context elaborations?

Example 1: Phone conversation

Pengpeng — 喂，是 Rebecca 吗？

我是朋朋。Rebecca — 你好，我就是。

Pengpeng — 你好。明天晚上你有空吗？

Rebecca — 对。你有什么事？

Pengpeng — 明天是我的生日！你来我家吃饭吧！

Rebecca — 好啊。我没去过你家。怎么去？

Pengpeng — 不用坐车。我家离学校很近，走路只要五分钟。从学校出去往右走。到了红绿灯，过了马路就是我家。

Rebecca — 好，你家是几号？

Pengpeng — 我家是十八号。五点到我家。我们要看电影。

Rebecca — 好。要我带什么东西？

Pengpeng — 带一个大红包就行了！哈哈！开玩笑。你什么都不用带。

Rebecca — 好

，明天晚上见。Pengpeng - 好

，明天晚上见。Context and

text type

Pengpeng, a Chinese student, invites her friend Rebecca, who is learning Chinese, to her birthday party. They discuss what activities there will be, what they need to bring, and how to get there.

Text type

Phone conversation, informal. Interactive.

Examples showing how the student is:

Communicating information, ideas, and opinions beyond the immediate context

Rebecca uses 你好 to greet Pengpeng. This greeting is more often used in a face-to-face situation. 喂 is the conventional greeting in a phone conversation. Rebecca's use of 你好 does not however appear to inhibit communication.

Rebecca uses the past tense to communicate information beyond the immediate context:

- 我没去过你家。

Rebecca asks many questions about the birthday party, for example:

- 怎么去？

This is spoken interaction, so features such as pronunciation, intonation, rhythm patterns, delivery speed, audibility, stress patterns, and tones have a bearing on the overall effectiveness of the communication and need to be taken into consideration.

Expressing and responding to personal ideas and opinions

Rebecca expresses acceptance of Pengpeng's suggestions:

- 好啊/好.

Rebecca responds to Pengpeng's comments by asking questions, for example:

- 你有什么事?

The text illustrates the use of questions to seek information:

- 怎么去? 你家几号?

Such questions also help sustain the conversation.

Communicating appropriately in different situations

Rebecca shows that she understands Pengpeng's use of 不用 when giving suggestions and advice (你什么都不用带) by replying, 好, 明天晚上见。

She seems to understand the convention in Chinese culture that guests are not expected to contribute anything towards the party when they accept the invitation. It can be seen as a great insult to the host if they BYO.

Pengpeng uses colloquial expressions such as 带一个大红包. It is the Chinese custom to give money in a red envelope as a present. Pengpeng says it as a joke, as she understands that it is not the case in New Zealand. Rebecca seems to understand Pengpeng's humour.

哈哈! (LOL) is another colloquialism that Pengpeng uses when speaking to Rebecca. She uses it because it is an expression that is commonly used in New Zealand English, and she knows that Rebecca will most likely understand it. Students could investigate whether this expression is used in the languages they know.

对 means 'correct', and is seldom used as equivalent to the English 'yes'. In Chinese, it is usual to repeat the verb from the question to confirm or agree with something. Here, it would have been more appropriate for Rebecca to have replied to Pengpeng's question by saying 有 or 有空. Pengpeng, however, appears to understand what Rebecca means.

Rebecca's interrogative sentence 要我带什么东西? is grammatically incorrect. As a yes/no question, it should read 要我带什么东西吗? The grammatical error does not appear to impede the effectiveness of the communication.

Understanding how language is organised for different purposes

Pengpeng gives an informal greeting, 喂, when answering the phone. This sets the tone of the conversation as an informal encounter.

The conversation ends with Pengpeng repeating Rebecca's last sentence, to indicate to Rebecca her confirmation of the arrangements for the party.

The conversation is clearly an intercultural encounter. When Pengpeng invites Rebecca to her party, Rebecca needs to find out what Pengpeng's expectations are in relation to culturally appropriate behaviour. Rebecca and Pengpeng construct their cultural understandings through their interaction, because Rebecca takes the initiative in asking questions.

Opportunities for developing intercultural communicative competence

The sentence 带一个大红包 provides an opportunity for students to understand that money wrapped in red can be used as a birthday present.

Students can explore why Chinese people regard red as a lucky colour, and what qualities they invest in other colours. They can make comparisons and connections with the different associations of colours in their own cultures, for example, the colours associated with weddings and funerals.

Conditions of Assessment

General Information

Subject Reference	Chinese
Domain	Chinese
Level	1

This document provides guidelines for assessment against internally assessed standards. Guidance is provided on:

- appropriate ways of, and conditions for, gathering evidence
- ensuring that evidence is authentic
- any other relevant advice specific to an achievement standard.

NB: It is expected that teachers are familiar with additional generic guidance on assessment practice in schools published on the NZQA website. This should be read in conjunction with these Conditions of Assessment.

This document should be read in conjunction with The New Zealand Curriculum (Ministry of Education, 2007).

For All Standards

Internal assessment provides considerable flexibility in the collection of evidence. Evidence can be collected in different ways to suit a range of teaching and learning styles and a range of contexts of teaching and learning. Care needs to be taken to allow students opportunities to present their best evidence against the standard(s) that are free from unnecessary constraints.

It is recommended that the design of assessment reflects and reinforces the ways students have been learning. Collection of evidence for the internally assessed standards could include, but is not restricted to, an extended task, an investigation, digital evidence (such as recorded interviews, blogs, photographs or film) or a portfolio of evidence.

It is also recommended that the collection of evidence for internally assessed standards should not use the same method that is used for any external standards in a programme/course, particularly if that method is using a time bound written examination. This could unfairly disadvantage students who do not perform well under these conditions.

A separate assessment event is not needed for each standard. Often assessment can be integrated into one activity that collects evidence towards two or three different standards from a programme of learning. Evidence can also be collected over time from a range of linked activities (for example, in a portfolio). This approach can also ease the assessment workload for both students and teachers.

Effective assessment should suit the nature of the learning being assessed, provide opportunities to meet the diverse needs of all students and be valid and fair.

Where manageable, and after further learning has taken place, students may be offered a maximum of one further opportunity for assessment against an assessment standard within a year.

Authenticity of student evidence needs to be assured regardless of the method of collecting evidence. This needs to be in line with school policy. For example, for an investigation carried out over several sessions, this could include teacher observations or the use of milestones such as meetings with students, journal or photographic entries recording progress etc.

Unmodified extracts from any external source should not be included without acknowledgement of sources and will not be considered for the final achievement judgement.

Specific Information for Individual Internal Achievement Standards

Achievement Standard Number	1.2
Title	Give a spoken presentation in CHINESE that communicates a personal response
Number of Credits	4
Version	2

This achievement standard involves using CHINESE to give a spoken presentation that communicates a personal response.

Sufficiency of Evidence

Provided the evidence given meets the communicative purpose(s) of the task(s), the length of the evidence may vary however at all times, quality is more important than length.

One minute is a suggested guideline for appropriate length.

Where a presentation is made by a group, each person will be assessed individually.

Collection of Evidence

Digital audio or video evidence are suitable ways of collecting evidence.

Prompts

Communication is the focus of the assessment. The presentation may be supported by prepared notes/cue cards/props/other supporting material/a copy of the text, but not read verbatim/in its entirety.

Aids to memory such as those suggested above should enhance and not detract from the presentation.

Feedback and Feed Forward

Teachers may provide suitable feedback and feed forward during the preparation phase of the presentation. This may be on the written or oral aspects of the presentation.

Teacher feedback and feed forward on student's drafts should be holistic to ensure the final presentation remains a true representation of the student's ability. More than one opportunity for feedback could compromise authenticity.

Presentation

This standard assesses the student's ability to present to an audience. The audience will be determined by the purpose of the presentation e.g. a Youtube clip, a speech competition, a podcast to an exchange school.

Achievement Standard Number	1.3
Title	Interact using spoken CHINESE to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions in different situations
Number of Credits	5
Version	2

This achievement standard involves a range of spoken interactions in CHINESE to share personal information and opinions in personal and transactional situations.

Sufficiency of Evidence

A range of interactions involves at least two interactions.

Tasks should provide opportunities for students to demonstrate language use across a range of contexts and for a range of purposes, and enable achievement at all levels. Provided the evidence given meets the communicative purpose(s) of the task(s), the length of the evidence may vary however at all times, quality is more important than length.

A total of three minutes speaking time is a guideline for this standard.

Where an interaction involves a pair or group, each person will be assessed individually.

The focus of this standard is the successful negotiation of meaning in a realistic context.

In interactions, there is a level of spontaneity not apparent in prepared oral presentations. Features of interactions which contribute to natural communication include such things as:

- referring back to things that have already been said
- clarifying
- negotiating meaning
- using colloquial and formulaic expressions appropriate for the contexts.

Collection of Evidence

The interactions could involve pair, group or class based interactions, which may be 'free' and/or 'controlled' production (Ellis, 2005).

It may be appropriate for prompts such as photos, mind-maps or diagrams to be available to students during an interaction.

It is expected that at least one piece of evidence will be in digital format.

Records of evidence could be digital recordings in various formats e.g. video, cell phone, or other appropriate digital formats.

Feedback and Feed Forward

Teacher feedback and feed forward after listening to interactions may improve students understanding of the interaction criteria for future interactions.

Achievement Standard Number	1.5
Title	Write a variety of text types in CHINESE on areas of most immediate relevance
Number of Credits	5
Version	2

This achievement standard involves writing a variety of texts to communicate in CHINESE for genuine purposes with the support of resources.

Evidence

A range of commonly used real life resources which may be used to support drafting and reworking could include search engines, word lists, spell and grammar checkers, pamphlets, dictionaries, text books, grammar notes, people – friends, family, native speakers.

Sufficiency of Evidence

A variety of texts involves at least two pieces of writing.

Tasks should provide opportunities for students to demonstrate language in different contexts and for a range of purposes, and enable achievement at all levels. Provided the evidence meets the communicative purpose(s) of the task(s), the length of the evidence may vary however at all times, quality is more important than length.

300 words, 600 kana or 300 Chinese characters is a suggested guideline for this standard.

Collection of Evidence

Evidence of at least two text types should be collected. This ensures that the assessor has sufficient evidence to attest that a student is working at the specified level reasonably consistently rather than accidentally and occasionally. Selection of evidence would be made by the student. Types of written evidence could be handwritten or electronic. The final selection is considered as a whole for grade allocation.

Stages of writing may include brainstorming, outlining, drafting, revising, proof-reading and final draft. The selection of evidence will showcase the individual's final work.

Feedback and Feed Forward

Teacher feedback and feed forward on student's drafts should be holistic to ensure the final product remains a true representation of the student's ability. More than one opportunity for feedback could compromise authenticity.

Explanatory Notes

- This achievement standard is derived from the Learning Languages Communication Strand Curriculum Level 6 of The New Zealand Curriculum, Learning Media, Ministry of Education, 2007, and is related to the material in the Teaching and Learning Guide for Languages, Ministry of Education, 2010 at <http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz>.
- Curriculum Level 6 includes the communication skills, language and cultural knowledge needed to communicate a personal response.
- Definitions
A personal response could include but is not limited to:
 - describing and/or responding to images or cultural practices
 - telling a story or stories
 - reporting family, personal, or everyday events
 - describing opinions, emotions, or feelings elicited by stimulus material
 - self-introduction or welcome.

Communicates a personal response refers to expressing personal information, ideas and opinions in culturally appropriate spoken Chinese.

Communication is achieved overall, despite inconsistencies, such as:

- language features
- pronunciation
- intonation
- rhythm patterns
- delivery speed or audibility
- stress patterns
- tones.

Convincing means that there is development of the information, ideas and opinions which is generally credible and connected. The presenter selects and uses a range of language and language features that are fit for purpose and audience. Communication is not significantly hindered by inconsistencies.

Effective means that there is development of the information, ideas and opinions which is controlled and integrated. The presenter capably selects and successfully uses language and language features that are fit for purpose and audience. Communication is not hindered by inconsistencies.

Replacement Information

This achievement standard replaced unit standard 12097 and AS90073.

Quality Assurance

- 1 Providers and Industry Training Organisations must have been granted consent to assess by NZQA before they can register credits from assessment against achievement standards.
- 2 Organisations with consent to assess and Industry Training Organisations assessing against achievement standards must engage with the moderation system that applies to those achievement standards.

Teacher guidelines

The following guidelines are supplied to enable teachers to carry out valid and consistent assessment using this internal assessment resource.

Teachers need to be very familiar with the outcome being assessed by Achievement Standard Languages 90869. The achievement criteria and the explanatory notes contain information, definitions, and requirements that are crucial when interpreting the standard and assessing students against it.

Context/setting

This assessment activity requires students to give a presentation in culturally appropriate spoken Chinese, expressing personal information, ideas, and opinions.

A variety of contexts and scenarios are possible for a spoken presentation, and the selection will depend on individual teaching programmes and the interests and needs of your students.

Students need to be aware that, at this level, they are required to communicate beyond the immediate context, for example, about the past and/or the future. Discuss with students how this might be done.

Conditions

Presentations will be recorded for assessment purposes. They should be about one minute in length, but quality is more important than quantity. They may be technologically facilitated, e.g. podcast, YouTube clip etc.

Students may work alone, in pairs, or in a group. Where two or more students construct and perform a presentation together, each must have a significant role in both the creation and presentation so there is sufficient evidence for assessment of individual performance.

When delivering their presentation, students may have with them: prepared notes, cue cards, props, other supporting material, or a copy of the text, but they may not read directly from their notes. To do so will mean they have not met the standard.

Resource requirements

Recording equipment will be required.

Student instructions

Introduction

This assessment activity requires you to give a presentation in culturally appropriate spoken Chinese, expressing personal information, ideas, and opinions.

Your presentation should be approximately one minute long, but quality is more important than quantity. Your presentation needs to be recorded for assessment and moderation purposes.

Before the assessment, your teacher will discuss the requirements of the standard, including what you need to show in your spoken presentation.

Task

Your class has won a prize offered by the local Chinese cultural association – an exchange trip to China! The association would like to see evidence of your ability to give a presentation, either in China or at home on your return. Possible spoken presentations could include but are not limited to the following.

On exchange

- A self-introduction, including your personal details, hobbies, interests, and hopes, and your wishes for your time in China.
- An autobiography of your life so far, for example, using a photo album (paper or digital) to talk to your host family about your life (both past and present) and family.
- A description (for Chinese school students) of a typical school day for a New Zealand teenager (using yesterday or tomorrow as examples of your own day).
- A presentation (for Chinese school students) on your home town, including what you hope they will do when they come to visit New Zealand.

- An explanation (for Chinese school students) about what you do in your free time or on the weekend (giving an example of what you did last weekend or hope to do next weekend).
- A thank-you to your host family or host school, with special mention of what was your favourite part of the trip.

On return to school in New Zealand

- A presentation on the trip, describing where you went, what you did, saw, ate, and so on.
- Your experiences and impressions of a Chinese school or family life, with examples from your time there.
- A presentation of uniquely Chinese things you discovered whilst on the trip, for example, customs, meals, celebrations, and so on.

On the Chinese exchange students' return visit to New Zealand

- A welcome speech, which also gives a presentation on what they will do during their stay, for example, an itinerary, visits, group activities, and so on.

All work must be your own. Extracts from external sources should not be included without acknowledging the sources. Any extracts from external sources will not be considered in the final achievement judgement.

You may not use the language from the language samples unless it has been significantly reworked.

You may use prepared notes, cue cards, props, or other supporting material. However, you must not read from these verbatim. If you do, you will not achieve the standard.

Clarifications for Level 1 Languages

Presentation

Show: Languages Homepage | All Languages clarifications

Give a spoken presentation that communicates a personal response

Updated December 2016. The section on feedback and feed forward has been updated.

Feedback and feed forward on drafts

Teacher feedback and feed forward on students' drafts should be holistic to ensure that the final product remains a true representation of the student's ability. More than one opportunity for feedback will compromise authenticity. Complex language, with few or no errors, may indicate that too much feedback has been given.

Language should be the student's own work. Resources should be used appropriately and large chunks of lifted language should be either avoided completely or referenced and not included in the assessed work.

Content

These standards involve expressing personal information, ideas and opinions. In order to fulfil the NZC level requirements, the student must also show that they are able to communicate beyond the immediate context, for example, past and future events. The context for the presentation will decide whether students communicate about past and/or future events within the presentation.

The best presentations are to the point and close to the allocated times. Development does not equal length. Suggested time for a level 1 presentation is one minute.

The purpose of this presentation is delivery to an audience. This could be either a face to face or an online audience. Tasks should ensure that students will have a context which requires a presentation as opposed to a piece of writing, e.g. a video/podcast recording introducing yourself to an intended host family.

Communication and language

As this is a spoken presentation, inconsistencies do not relate solely to errors in vocabulary or grammar. Inconsistencies in communication may relate to the following: language features, pronunciation, intonation, rhythm patterns, delivery speed, audibility, stress patterns, tones. Incorrect language/inconsistencies will affect the grade to the extent that they hinder communication.

Language features should be taken into account when allocating a grade. A speaker who speaks very quickly without pausing appropriately for new sentences may have a presentation which, would receive Excellence as a piece of writing, but which will receive a Merit for this standard. Inconsistencies in delivery speed and stress patterns may mean that the communication of the message is hindered. Delivery may ultimately affect the grade.

The nature of the language features used will also be determined by the fact that this is a spoken presentation, e.g. at level 1 this could be the use of simple rhetorical questions such as 'don't you think?'

Delivery of presentation

Cue cards/text should only be used for support, and students may not read their presentation in its entirety. If they do so, they cannot be awarded the standard.

Explanatory Notes

- This achievement standard is derived from the Learning Languages Communication Strand Curriculum Level 6 of The New Zealand Curriculum, Learning Media, Ministry of Education, 2007, and is related to the material in the Teaching and Learning Guide for Languages, Ministry of Education, 2010 at <http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz>.
- Curriculum Level 6 includes the communication skills, language and cultural knowledge needed to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions.
- Definitions
Interact refers to a range of culturally appropriate spoken and gestural exchanges in Chinese. The interactions are to be for a given purpose and could be face to face or technologically facilitated.

Interactions are characterised by:

- a genuine purpose
- negotiating meaning
- initiating and maintaining
- participating and contributing
- natural language
- using different language for different purpose(s)
- using conventions (eg cultural, courtesies, gestures)
- contextually appropriate language
- using simple interactive strategies such as fillers, questioning, thanking, apologising, pausing, prompting, seeking clarification.

Not all characteristics may be evident in one interaction.

Interaction may be hindered in some places by inconsistencies in:

- language features
- understanding
- pronunciation
- intonation
- rhythm patterns
- delivery speed or audibility
- stress patterns
- tones.

Personal information includes opinions, ideas and information that relate to the student's life, and may include formal cultural responses.

Formal cultural responses refer to language and cultural responses in formal situations and rituals (eg rituals and protocols around food, gift giving, different ways of interacting with elders).

Different situations include a selection of transactional, social, conversational, formal cultural, and routine contexts.

Communicate personal information, ideas and opinions means to share information, ideas and opinions that are relevant to the context (eg conversations about past and future events, incidental social exchanges, short plays and unprepared interactions on areas of most immediate relevance).

Areas of most immediate relevance refer to language related to basic personal information and past, present and/or future experiences (eg family, shopping, local area, events and activities).

Convincing spoken Chinese refers to interaction showing use of a range of language that is fit for the context and generally successful selection from a repertoire of language features and strategies to support the interaction. Interaction is not significantly hindered by inconsistencies.

Effective spoken Chinese refers to interaction showing successful use of a range of language that is consistently fit for the context and skilful selection from a repertoire of language features and strategies to support the interaction. Interaction is not hindered by inconsistencies.

- 4 At all times, the quality of the selection of interactions, considered as a whole, is more important than the length.

Teacher guidelines

The following guidelines are supplied to enable teachers to carry out valid and consistent assessment using this internal assessment resource.

Teachers need to be very familiar with the outcome being assessed by the achievement standard. The achievement criteria and the explanatory notes contain information, definitions, and requirements that are crucial when interpreting the standard and assessing students against it.

Context/setting

This activity requires students to present selected recordings of a range of their spoken interactions in a variety of situations. The type of interaction will depend on the scenario or activity chosen. Guide students about the types of interactions they might have, and/or create/adapt interactions to suit the topic being studied at the time.

Students are told that the local cultural association is offering a trip to China. The organisation is looking for students who have made a real effort to talk in Chinese as much as possible. For their entry for the competition, the students have to make a collection of their best Chinese interactions.

Provide or ensure students select for themselves situations that allow them to show their control of language rules and culture in language. For further details, see the Senior Secondary Teaching and Learning Guides for Languages:

<http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz/>

Include a range of interactions that involve free, meaning-focused language production, as well as more controlled and form-focused production. It is not appropriate for students to learn, rehearse, and then present scripted role plays.

Conditions

Students will need to begin recording interactions from the beginning of the assessment process (which may be as early as term 1) and manage the storage of their recordings.

Methods for recording interactions could include videoing role play, recording with a cell phone a conversation in the classroom, or digitally recording a conversation in a computer lab. You or the students will need to store each recording in a safe and accessible location.

Students will select for assessment a minimum of two recorded interactions from different situations. Their total individual spoken contribution over their selected interactions needs to be about three minutes.

Make sure you give feedback to students throughout the year to help them submit recordings that represent their best work. You might ask a student to change their selection if you think it does not reflect their full ability.

Students are rewarded for contributing to and maintaining the interaction. Their range of language in the interactions is shown mainly through their ability to use a range of appropriate conversational strategies to maintain and sustain the interaction, rather than through their ability to use grammatical structures.

Assess the students holistically across the range of evidence provided. Students need to show they can use the language consciously and reasonably consistently, rather than accidentally and occasionally.

Resource requirements

The students will need access to audio and/or video recording equipment.

Student instructions

Introduction

This task requires you to interact in Chinese in a range of different situations. You will interact with a classmate, your teacher, and/or in groups.

You will complete this work over time, throughout the year.

You will be assessed on how well you are able to use spoken Chinese to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions in different situations.

Task

During the year, you will make audio or video recordings of yourself using Chinese in a range of spoken interactions.

As you work, record each interaction and store it in a suitable manner. Your teacher will provide specific details.

Teacher note: Provide specific instructions to suit your context, for example, on the school server or on a class page set up on a digital site.

At the end of the assessment period, select a minimum of two of your recorded interactions for assessment.

Make sure that in your selected interactions, your total spoken contribution is about three minutes and all the work is your own. Quality is more important than quantity.

You may not use the language from the language samples unless it has been significantly reworked.

Cue cards may not be used. You may use authentic context material suitable to the task, for example, a shopping list or map, but you may not read from it.

Scenario

A local organisation is offering a huge prize – a trip to China! They are looking for students who have made a real effort to talk in Chinese as much as possible. For your entry for the competition, you have to make a collection of your best Chinese interactions.

The organisation wants you to choose your own interactions for submission to the competition.

Make sure you choose different situations for each interaction and check each choice with your teacher before you begin work on it.

Base each interaction on the topic you are studying at the time.

The organisation has provided the following examples to guide you.

- A discussion planning an everyday event, such as a party or what to do on the weekend.
- A phone call to your friend after a day away from school to find out what you have missed and what you need to prepare for the next day.
- A conversation between you and a partner in which you discuss what you hope to see and do if you win the prize.
- A conversation in which you help a Chinese-speaking tourist in your town.
- A television commercial for a Chinese product, in which you give some information about the product (real or imaginary) and discuss what you like about it.

Teacher note: Adapt these examples to suit your students and context.

Interact to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions in different situations

Updated December 2016. This document has been updated to include language features.

Language Features

A repertoire of language features and strategies to maintain the interaction is required for this standard. For this reason, it does not produce evidence towards this standard if students write and learn scripted role plays by heart, or otherwise prepare the total interaction beforehand. Indicators of the ability to maintain an interaction will not be evident in such exchanges.

Features and strategies such as pausing, negotiating meaning, prompting, seeking clarification etc. can only be seen in evidence when the student is unaware of all questions that are asked, and has not prepared all answers. For this reason, the use of cue cards would also render evidence invalid.

Interactions where students can react in a genuine way, and where they are able to naturally control the direction of the interaction, give students the opportunity to meet the criteria.

Range

The standard calls for a minimum of two interactions, and these must be in different situations. This will mean that the context and/or purpose and/or type will be different for each interaction, e.g. negotiating the best way to spend a Saturday evening with friends will necessitate different language from a discussion of what students did in the holidays.

Assessing the collection of evidence

The grade will be awarded for the collection of interactions assessed as a whole, i.e. each interaction will not be assessed individually - the grade will be derived from the overall quality of the work. Students must show that they are working consciously and reasonably consistently at the level, rather than accidentally and occasionally.

The sample tasks suggest about three minutes interaction in total for level 1.

Language

Incorrect language/inconsistencies will only affect a grade if they hinder communication. It is important to note that accuracy is not a criterion of this standard. In a realistic conversation by learners of a second language errors are natural and should not be overly penalised.

Whilst inconsistencies that do not affect communication will not affect the grade, for Excellence, there needs to be sufficient language, outside the language with errors, that contributes to the criteria of successful use of a range language.

At level 1, students will show evidence of language to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions. Over the collected evidence there will be evidence of each of these.

In order to fulfil the NZC level requirements, the student must also show that, within the collected evidence, they are able to communicate beyond the immediate context, for example about past and/or future events (NZC levels 5 and 6 Learning Languages).

This achievement standard involves writing a variety of text types to communicate in Chinese on areas of most immediate relevance.

Achievement Criteria

Achievement	Achievement with Merit	Achievement with Excellence
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Write a variety of text types in Chinese on areas of most immediate relevance. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Write a variety of text types in convincing Chinese on areas of most immediate relevance. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Write a variety of text types in effective Chinese on areas of most immediate relevance.

Explanatory Notes

- This achievement standard is derived from the Learning Languages Communication Strand Curriculum Level 6 of The New Zealand Curriculum, Learning Media, Ministry of Education, 2007, and is related to the material in the Teaching and Learning Guide for Languages, Ministry of Education, 2010 at <http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz>.
- Curriculum Level 6 includes the communication skills, language and cultural knowledge needed to write a variety of texts on areas of most immediate relevance.
- Definitions
Write refers to composing and organising text in a linguistically and culturally appropriate format and style, and may include:
 - drafting
 - reworking over a period of time.

Write on areas of most immediate relevance refers to using language, related to basic personal information and past, present, and/or future experiences, in order to express personal information, ideas and opinions in culturally appropriate written Chinese.

Communication is achieved overall, despite inconsistencies, such as:

- format
- spelling
- lexical choice
- level of formality
- language conventions
- language features.

Convincing means that there is development of the information, ideas and opinions which is generally credible and connected. The writer selects and uses a range of language and language features that are fit for purpose and audience. Communication is not significantly hindered by inconsistencies.

Effective means that there is development of the information, ideas and opinions which is controlled and integrated. The writer capably selects and successfully uses language and language features that are fit for purpose and audience. Communication is not hindered by inconsistencies.

Variety refers to texts selected from a range of different text types, which have been created for different purposes. At all times the quality of the texts in the selection, considered as a whole, is more important than length.

- 4 Conditions of Assessment related to this achievement standard can be found at <http://ncea.tki.org.nz/Resources-for-Internally-Assessed-Achievement-Standards>.

Replacement Information

This achievement standard replaced unit standard 12099, unit standard 12100, AS90076 and AS90077.

Quality Assurance

- 1 Providers and Industry Training Organisations must have been granted consent to assess by NZQA before they can register credits from assessment against achievement standards.
- 2 Organisations with consent to assess and Industry Training Organisations assessing against achievement standards must engage with the moderation system that applies to those achievement standards.

Teacher guidelines

The following guidelines are supplied to enable teachers to carry out valid and consistent assessment using this internal assessment resource.

Teachers need to be very familiar with the outcome being assessed by the achievement standard. The achievement criteria and the explanatory notes contain information, definitions, and requirements that are crucial when interpreting the standard and assessing students against it.

Context/setting

This activity requires students to develop a writing portfolio in which they gather evidence of their ability to write in Chinese. The students will keep all of their writing throughout the year and then select a minimum of two pieces of writing that they decide are the best and most effective.

The context of this portfolio is a school exchange. The writing work that students complete during the year is in preparation for the exchange and allows students to make contact with the (imaginary) exchange school.

For this portfolio, a variety of contexts and scenarios for writing are possible, and the selection will depend on individual teaching programmes and the interests and needs of your students.

It is important that you require students to write a range of different text types that are for genuine purposes and that allow students to show their control of written language in different contexts. For further details, see the Senior Secondary Teaching and Learning Guides for Languages: <http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz/>

The writing tasks could be in both free (spontaneous) and controlled (prepared) situations.

The writing for the exchanges could include, for example:

- a poster the student creates and adds to during the year, which gives information about them and their school
- a letter the student writes to their prospective host family telling them about themselves and asking about the host family
- the text of a speech about their home town in case the student is asked to talk in front of students in China
- contributions to a class blog planning the itinerary, with things the student wants and doesn't want to do

- a list of useful expressions the student thinks they might need when they are there. Students will need to think about the types of situations they might be in and anticipate the language they will need.

Adapt these to suit your students and context or use them as a guide to create your own texts.

Conditions

Students will need to begin writing and storing texts from the beginning of the assessment process (which may be as early as term 1).

You or the students will need to store each piece of writing in a safe and accessible location. See Additional information for some suggestions.

Students should not include extracts from external sources without acknowledging the sources. Do not include any extracts from such sources for consideration in your final achievement judgement.

Provided a student's writing meets the communicative purposes of the tasks, the length may vary. A total minimum length of about 300 characters is suggested. However, at all times, quality is more important than length.

Make sure you give feedback to students throughout the year to help them to submit written texts that represent their best work. You might ask a student to change their selection if you think it does not reflect their full ability.

Assess the students holistically across the range of evidence provided. Students need to show they can use the language consciously and reasonably consistently, rather than accidentally and occasionally.

Resource requirements

If students write a glog or blog, they will need access to a computer.

Additional information

Decide at the beginning of the year on a suitable method of storing the writing, for example:

- in a named plastic or manila folder kept at school, for all hard copies
- in a named file on the teacher's laptop or a suitable school computer, for digital entries
- in a named file in a digital portfolio tool such as a class wiki, blog, or Moodle page.

For more information about creating a poster glog, go to Software for Learning at <http://softwareforlearning.tki.org.nz/> and search for "Glogster".

Student instructions

Introduction

This activity requires you to write a variety of texts of different types in Chinese. All of your writing will be based on the topics and language you are studying at the time.

You will complete this work over time, throughout the year. Your teacher will provide specific details.

Teacher note: Provide specific details to suit your context, including such aspects as final submission due date, in- or out-of-class work, and whether or not you will allow them to rework their writing before their final submission.

You will be assessed on how well you use written Chinese to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions in a range of different text types.

Task

During the year, write a variety of texts in Chinese to communicate personal information, ideas and opinions.

At the end of the year, select your best work for assessment.

School exchange scenario

Over the Christmas holidays, you are going with your Chinese class on an exchange to China. A Chinese school will billet you. Your teachers have arranged for you to have various written exchanges with the Chinese students during the year so you can get to know each other a bit better.

The writing for the exchanges could include, for example:

- a poster you add to during the year, which gives information about you and your school
- a letter you write to your prospective host family telling them about yourself and asking about the host family
- the text of a speech about your home town in case you are asked to talk in front of students in China
- contributions to a class blog planning the itinerary, with things you want and don't want to do

- another text type that you agree on with your teacher.

As you complete these, store them safely as directed by your teacher.

Teacher note: Provide specific instructions to suit your context, for example, in a manila folder or clear file in the classroom, on the school server, or on a class page set up on a digital site such as a blog, wiki, or Moodle page.

At the end of the assessment period, select a minimum of two of your written texts for your final portfolio for assessment.

Select for your portfolio the pieces of your writing you think are the best and most effective. Include a variety of text types and make sure that in your selected texts, your total written contribution is about 300 characters or more. Quality is more important than quantity.

All work must be your own. You should not include extracts from external sources without acknowledging the sources, and these extracts will not count towards the assessment.

You may not use the language from the language samples unless it is significantly reworked.

Writing

Write a variety of text types on areas of most immediate relevance

Updated December 2016. The section on feedback and feed forward has been updated.

Feedback and feed forward on drafts

Teacher feedback and feed forward on students' drafts should be holistic to ensure that the final product remains a true representation of the student's ability. More than one opportunity for feedback will compromise authenticity. Complex language, with few or no errors, may indicate that too much feedback has been given.

Use of resources

Authentic texts, native speakers, exemplars and digital tools are resources. Students need to be aware that they cannot copy large chunks of text, and that they must adapt and rework the language. Students need to reference direct text in their work, and this will not count as evidence of language. It is inappropriate to have native speakers providing large chunks of language or correcting drafts.

Text type

The context and/or purpose and/or text type (a minimum of two) will be different for each piece, e.g. at level 1 a personal email to a French host family, a blog posting on the class French site about an activity that has taken place and their opinion about it, an invitation to a future party including instructions on what to bring, etc.

Curriculum level

The standard requires students to use language related to basic personal information and past, present and/or future experiences. Whilst students are free to use all language they have at their disposal, the task cannot expect students to use language beyond that required to achieve the standard.

NZC level 6 requires students to communicate beyond the immediate context, e.g. about past and/or future events. The past/future does not, however, have to be used in all pieces of writing.

Assessing the collection of evidence

The grade will be awarded for the pieces of writing assessed as a whole, i.e. each piece will not be assessed individually; rather, the grade will be derived from the overall quality of the work. Students must show that they are working consciously and reasonably consistently at the level, rather than accidentally and occasionally.

Incorrect language/inconsistencies will only affect a grade if they hinder communication. Whilst inconsistencies that do not affect communication will not affect the grade, for Excellence, there needs to be sufficient language, outside the language with errors, that contributes to the criteria of capable selection and successful use of language.

The sample tasks suggest the following approximate word/character/kana count for level 1: 300 characters for Chinese, 600 kana for Japanese, or 300 words for all other languages. These are a realistic expectation of the amount that may be needed to provide sufficient evidence from which to make a judgement. At all times quality is more important than quantity.

Explanatory Notes

- This achievement standard is derived from the Learning Languages Communication Strand Curriculum Level 6 of The New Zealand Curriculum, Learning Media, Ministry of Education, 2007, and is related to the material in the Teaching and Learning Guide for Languages, Ministry of Education, 2010 at <http://seniorsecondary.tki.org.nz>.
- Curriculum Level 6 includes the communication skills, language and cultural knowledge needed to demonstrate understanding of different text types, in a range of situations of immediate relevance.
- Definitions
Demonstrate understanding refers to candidates making meaning of spoken Chinese by responding in their choice of English, te reo Māori, and/or Chinese to the information, ideas and/or opinions about the events, people, places and experiences of the Chinese heard.

Spoken Chinese texts refer to aural texts containing language beyond the immediate context (eg past and future events), such as short conversations, voice messages, podcasts, announcements, instructions and reports. The texts will reflect the relationship between language and culture and be adapted as appropriate.

Areas of most immediate relevance refer to language related to basic personal information and past, present, and/or future experiences (eg family, shopping, local area, events and activities).

Clear understanding means the relevant information, ideas and/or opinions from the texts are selected and unambiguously communicated.

Thorough understanding means the relevant information, ideas and opinions from the texts are expanded on with supporting detail to show understanding of the implied meanings or conclusions within the text.

- 4 Evidence might include but is not limited to:
 - clarifying information, ideas and/or opinions
 - summarising information, ideas and/or opinions
 - producing, annotating, amending, or completing visual representations of ideas (eg maps, sketches, diagrams)
 - rephrasing Chinese statements for a different/specific purpose (eg making a recommendation, giving advice).
- 5 Assessment Specifications for this achievement standard can be accessed through the Chinese Resources page found at www.nzqa.govt.nz/ncea/resources.

Replacement Information

This achievement standard replaced unit standard 12095 and AS90072.
